Communication skills When meeting a new person, I feel intrigued to go and get to know the person and within the years I have learned to be confident. This has helped me to make new friends and realize that being shy won't get you anywhere.

Whenever a friend is in need of any help regarding school work, assignment questions or even just need someone to talk to, I will happily volunteer myself and help the person out. The satisfaction you get when helping a friend and seeing him happily relieved from a certain problem is just amazing. I am a very determined person, love challenges, and the feeling of overcoming them. I'm also a fast learner and adapt well to different environments or situations.

Organisational / managerial skills I have never had a problem with group confidence and was neither never afraid to share my personal opinion so I think I would be an ideal leader given that, I let people express their personal opinion on such matters and work as a team. I love working with any kind of age as long as they are open minded with any given idea and criticize it accordingly. I love Working in a team and achieve goals as a group with a variety methods and problem solving skills. I have good experience in teamwork due to working allot in groups at work to direct the fastest and most efficient way, all together and with everything flowing perfectly.

Job-related skills In functions I was responsible for dealing with clients such as the bride and the groom and tend to their required needs. I would have also bar tend to certain functions or parties. In the store room sometimes I would arrange certain stock and put every function-related object to its specific function.
